

John W. Barriger III Professorship
Supply Chain & Analytics Department

The Supply Chain & Analytics (SC&A) Department in the College of Business Administration at the University of Missouri - St. Louis (UMSL) invites applications for the John W. Barriger III Professorship. This is a full-time endowed tenured position at the Full or Associate level. The Barriger Professor will be an established scholar with recognized achievements in research, excellence in teaching (both in academic programs and professional development), and an established record of external funding. The Barriger Professor will also serve as Director of the College's Center for Transportation Studies.

Applicants should hold a doctoral degree in Supply Chain Management, Business Logistics, Transportation or a related field, and be passionate about applied research. As Director of the Center for Transportation Studies, key responsibilities include establishing a stream of external funding for applied research (supported by faculty from the College), support of the undergraduate and graduate programs in supply chain management and transportation, and strengthening ties to the regional professional community.

The ideal candidate will have the ability to build a nationally prominent center of excellence in the College of Business Administration in supply chain management, transportation, and/or logistics. The candidate should have research interests and experience in supply chain management, logistics and/or transportation, along with teaching expertise in relevant areas for undergraduate, masters, and doctoral courses. The position requires a strong interest in working with the regional business community, experience in administrative roles in academia, and excellent communication skills. As Director of the Center for Transportation Studies, the individual will engage with the John W. Barriger III National Railroad Library Board of Trustees.

UMSL is an urban public research university located in suburban St. Louis. It is part of the four-campus University of Missouri system and is the largest research university located in Missouri's most populous and economically important region. The College of Business Administration is accredited by AACSB and provides a supportive environment for teaching, research, and service. St. Louis is a major metropolitan area with moderate living costs and a large variety of cultural and recreational activities. St. Louis is home to many major supply chain and logistics business, and the SC&A Department has a very engaged Advisory Board of senior leaders.

Interested individuals should apply online at www.UMSL.jobs with job ID #27271. Applicants should include a letter of interest, curriculum vita, three references, and teaching ratings. For additional information please contact Dr. James Campbell at campbell@umsl.edu. Review of applications will begin in Fall 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

The University of Missouri is an affirmative action, equal employment opportunity employer committed to excellence through diversity. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. This position requires commitment to working with diverse student and community populations.