

Washington University in St. Louis

OLIN BUSINESS SCHOOL

Lecturer Position in Operations Management Washington University in St. Louis, Olin Business School

The Olin Business School is seeking applications from those qualified for two full-time lecturer positions in Operations Management. The major responsibilities will include teaching a negotiable number of courses that will focus on management science, operations management, and business analytics in the school's various programs, such as undergraduate, specialized masters, and business administration (MBA and PMBA).

JOB QUALIFICATIONS: Candidates must have a doctoral degree, (preferred) in operations management, industrial engineering, or operations research. Experience in effective teaching of similar courses to business school audiences is highly desirable.

SALARY: Competitive and commensurate with experience, academic qualifications, and teaching load.

APPOINTMENT: This is a full-time, teaching, faculty appointment starting in summer 2021.

DEADLINE: Applications submitted by January 21, 2021 will be read in their entirety. We will begin evaluating applications immediately, and continue to do so until the position is filled.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE: Consideration of applications will begin immediately. To assure that the review committee has immediate access to your application materials, you are strongly encouraged to apply using the Interfolio position url: <http://apply.interfolio.com/82294>. A CV must be uploaded and submitted in Interfolio in order to be considered for any position. An application is considered complete with the following components: cover letter of interest, vita, teaching statement, and evidence of teaching qualifications, such as course evaluations. Additional supporting documents may be required; you will be contacted should these be needed.

If you experience complications submitting your materials, please contact Kristen Jones, Human Resources Manager, Olin Business School, Washington University in St. Louis; kristen.jones@wustl.edu.

Diversity and Inclusion are core values at Washington University, and the strong candidate will demonstrate the ability to create inclusive classrooms and environments in which a diverse array of students can learn and thrive.

Washington University seeks an exceptionally qualified and diverse faculty; women, minorities, protected veterans, and candidates with disabilities are strongly encouraged to apply.

Washington University in St. Louis is committed to the principles and practices of equal employment opportunity and especially encourages applications by those underrepresented in their academic fields. It is the University's policy to recruit, hire, train, and promote persons in all job titles without regard to race, color, age, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, protected veteran status, disability, or genetic information.