Master of Science in Analytics

The University of Chicago Master of Science in Analytics (MScA) Program presents the Fall Analytics Career Fair and is inviting your company to take part in the event!

Building from a core in applied statistics, the Master of Science in Analytics provides students with advanced analytical training to develop their ability to draw insights from big data, including: data collection, preparation and integration, statistical methods and modeling, along with leadership courses in teamwork and data presentation.

The Fall Analytics Career Fair is a great opportunity to connect with the more than 120 UChicago students in the MScA Program and to recruit top talent for your internship and full-time job opportunities.

Join us Saturday, December 6, from 1–5 PM at the downtown Gleacher Center to learn more about the program and to connect with students about open positions at your company. Please e-mail Michael McGladdery (mcgladdery@uchicago.edu) or Karan Kumar (karankumar@uchicago.edu) for more information and to reserve a booth.

More detailed information regarding RSVP, program schedule, etc. will be provided next week.
